Working in another EEA country

If you will be working abroad for more than two years, your employer, or you, if you are self-employed, should phone HM Revenue and Customs (HMRC) on:

Access to healthcare abroad

The NHS is a residence-based system. If you live abroad, this means you are no longer entitled to medical treatment in the UK under normal NHS rules.

Access to healthcare abroad

This leaflet tells you about how you can get healthcare in other countries in the European Economic Area (EEA).

It covers:

- leisure or business trips;
- planned treatment;
- living abroad;
- working abroad; and
- studying abroad.

Countries in the EEA are:

Austria, Belgium, Bulgaria, Cyprus, Czech Republic, Denmark, Estonia, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Hungary, Iceland, Ireland, Italy, Latvia, Liechtenstein, Lithuania, Luxembourg, Malta, Netherlands, Norway, Poland, Portugal, Romania, Slovakia, Slovenia, Spain, Sweden and Switzerland

There are very few countries outside the EEA where you can get free healthcare.

For details, visit

www.dh.gov.uk/travellers.

Visiting another EEA country

If you are going to another EEA country on a leisure or business trip, you'll need a European Health Insurance Card (EHIC) to access state-provided healthcare that becomes necessary during your visit. The treatment you receive will be at a reduced cost, or sometimes even for free.

The quickest way to get an EHIC, which is free, is to apply online at www.dh.gov.uk/travellers.

Or, you can phone the EHIC applications line on 0845 606 2030.

You still need travel insurance

It is important you take out travel insurance as the EHIC does not cover all healthcare costs. For example, it will not cover the cost of your journey back to the UK if you need treatment and need to be sent home.

To apply for an EHIC and for more information, including advice for au pairs, nannies, people in the armed forces and students studying abroad visit www.dh.gov.uk/travellers.

Planned treatment

The EHIC only gives you access to healthcare that becomes necessary while you are abroad: it does not allow you to go to another EEA country specifically for treatment. If you want to go to another EEA country for treatment, you should discuss your plans with your local commissioner* before you travel.

This is so you:

- can be certain that they are prepared to fund your treatment;
- know exactly how much money you will get back;
- understand the conditions under which you will be treated abroad; and
- can agree, what happens after you return to the UK.

In certain circumstances, your local commissioner must agree to requests for treatment abroad: for example, if you face 'undue delay' in getting treatment in the UK. The decision on whether you face 'undue delay' will be made in the first instance by your NHS doctor. For more information on planned treatment abroad, visit www.dh.gov.uk/travellingabroadfortreatment.

Giving birth abroad

If you live in the UK and want to give birth in another EEA country, you should phone the Department for Work and Pensions (DWP) Medical Benefits for more information on:

0191 218 1999. (Monday to Friday, 8am to 5pm)

* In England, the commissioner is a primary care trust, practice-based commissioner or your GP.

In Wales: local health boards and Health Commission Wales.

In Scotland: the NHS board of where you live.

In Northern Ireland: health and social services boards.
